

Fieldwork Data

Section I (Basic profiling and background of the subject)

1. Name - Padum Murmu
Age - 56
2. Occupation - Farmer, Seasonal migrant labour
3. Family member - 4
4. Their roles in the household - Head of the family
5. Mother tongue - Santhali
Other language - Hindi
6. It is ancestral home here.
7. Household income - 8 -12 thousand per month
8. Android phones

Section II (About the game)

1. Traditional board game - Kati
2. Yes, I can tell you about this game. This game is played on flat, dry ground.
Players compete in pairs. If there are five players on one side, there will also be five on the other. Three lines are drawn at a distance of 8–12 meters, with a gap of 2 feet between each line. Players from the opposing team stand their boards upright on the middle line. The players in front take turns knocking down the boards one by one with their own board. In the final move, they also knock down the wooden piece placed at the end. If they succeed, they move on to the second round. In the second round, the boards are set up again in a similar manner, and the wooden piece is also placed back. The opposing team then tries to knock them down in the same way. If a player manages to knock down all the boards and the final wooden piece, their team wins. In this game, any one player from a team can also knock down all the boards and secure victory for their team.
3. Rules:
 - a. To participate in this game, you must have a partner.
 - b. You need to have your own board and wooden piece.
 - c. When you knock down an opponent's board, your board must cross the third line.
 - d. Any player from the same team can play in place of a teammate using the board.

4. The playing materials are made of wood. The semicircular board is crafted from the trunk of a tamarind tree, while the stick is made from bamboo.
5. Yes
6. Those who know how to make wooden items can craft them.
7. No
8. No
9. No
10. This game was played 25-30 years ago.
11. There is no time limit for the game.

Section III (Cultural Significance)

1. No
2. No
3. No
4. No
5. This game requires only skill.
6. It is a men's game.
7. No
8. No
9. No
10. Yes
11. No answer
12. No answer